三、阅读 (共两节, 满分 35 分)

第一节 阅读理解 (共 15 小题, 每小题 2 分, 满分 30 分)

阅读下面短文, 掌握大意, 然后从 26-40 各题所给的 A、B、C、D 项中, 选出最佳选项。

A

Frodo is a 20-year-old cat that loves to nap in the sun. However, getting to his favourite place by the pool means hobbling (跛行) down a flight of stairs every day.

But life has become a lot easier for the aging cat now.

Liam Thompson is an inventor who loves cats. He noticed his old friend struggling and decided to do something. He spent four days building an elevator that would allow Frodo to go up and down the stairs with no effort.

A video on the Internet, which has been viewed by over 900,000 people, showed how Thompson made the track and cart of the elevator for Frodo.

To make sure the elevator was safe for his old friend, Thompson used a toy to test out his creation. Thompson asked his favourite cat, "Are you ready to go downstairs without moving a muscle? I hope so because it took me four days."

Frodo seemed very relaxed in the elevator as it made its way to the bottom of the stairs. Thompson laughed with joy as Frodo walked out of the elevator and made his way over to the pool.

He said, "This is the greatest day of my life." His love for his cat has won 1.87 million fans on YouTube. Many viewers were impressed by the creation and one commented (评论), "His invention for his pet is much safer than the ones he invents for himself. Respect."

B

Shenzhen, already famous for its clean and smart public restrooms, is making headlines again. It has built special “pet toilets” in many communities and shopping malls, which is designed to solve the problem of pet waste.

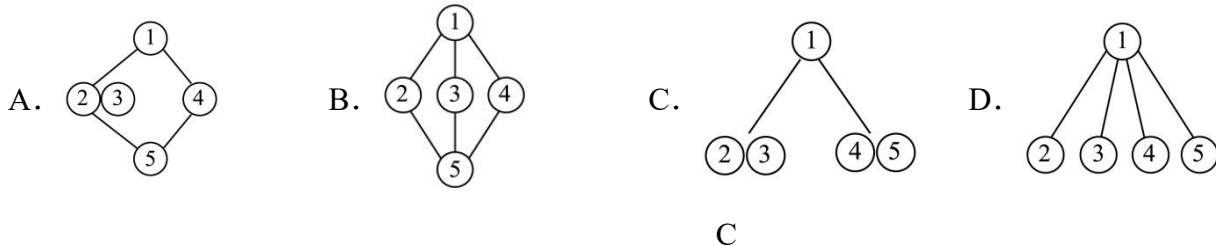

The Coast City shopping mall in Nanshan District has built a dedicated restroom for cats and dogs. This pet restroom is located next to regular restrooms and is provided with pet pee pads, deodorizers (除臭剂), and other items. On the walls, there are instructions on the proper ways to deal with pet waste. The overall environment is clean.

Many communities and shopping areas also provide pet waste cleaning tools for pet owners. In One Mall in Yantian District, there are sites for pet owners to pick up doggy waste bags. The Upperhills shopping mall in Futian District also provides trash bins with doggy waste bags and hand-wiping paper for cleaning up pet waste.

“Some dogs like chihuahuas (吉娃娃) and shih tzus (史托斯) can manage to go to the bathroom at home, but for larger dogs, outdoor toileting is a basic necessity,” said a woman who owns a small Scottish terrier (梗犬) named AD. “The pet toilets meet the physiological (生理的) needs of pets while also creating a cleaner, more comfortable public space for those who do not own pets.”

Shenzhen has long been a pioneer in creating a pet-friendly environment. As early as 2020, the city became the first in China to ban the consumption of cats and dogs. Today, over 50 malls have pet-friendly facilities, with more on the way.

31. What problem do the “pet toilets” mainly aim to deal with?
- A. To improve public restroom for humans. B. To manage pet waste left in public areas.
- C. To reduce the expenses of raising pets in the city. D. To solve the problem of walking large dogs in the city.
32. What facility is mentioned as being provided at the Upperhills shopping mall?
- A. Pet pee pads and deodorizers. B. Tools for picking up pet waste.
- C. Detailed instructions on pet training. D. A dedicated restroom next to regular ones.
33. Why does the author mention the Scottish terrier owner’s opinion?
- A. To argue against traditional restrooms.
- B. To compare small and large dogs’ needs.
- C. To emphasize that pet toilets benefit all citizens.
- D. To suggest improvements for Shenzhen’s pet facilities
34. What can we infer from the passage about Shenzhen’s attitude towards pets??
- A. It mainly cares about the health of large dogs.
- B. It has become the first city globally to ban eating pets.
- C. It aims to build more new shopping malls with pets.
- D. It is actively working to create a pet-friendly city.
35. How is the passage structured?

Pets have truly become an important part of people’s lives, bringing endless joy and warm companionship (陪伴). They are not just animals, they are dear members of many families. To find out more about what pets people prefer (更喜欢), we did a research in Panlong District, Wuhua District and Xishan District. 1,000 people took part in the research in each district. Here is the result:

DistrictPet Kinds	Panlong District	Wuhua District	Xishan District
Dogs	45%	35%	25%
Cats	30%	40%	35%
Rabbits	15%	15%	20%

Fishes	8%	7%	15%
Others	2%	3%	5%

All in all, this research shows that dogs and cats are the most popular pets in three districts, but people's choices can change from place to place. Pets really bring so much fun and love to our daily lives. Are you also planning to keep a pet? Which one do you like the most?

36. Why did the writer do the research?

- A. To show the importance of pets. B. To know how many pets people have.
C. To understand people's pet-keeping likes. D. To find out which district has the most pets.

37. In which district do the most people like cats?

- A. Panlong District. B. Wuhua District. C. Xishan District. D. All districts.

38. How many people like fishes in the research in Xishan District?

- A. 70. B. 80. C. 150. D. 250.

39. Which of the following is TRUE according to the text?

- A. Dogs are the most popular pets in all three districts.
B. More people like rabbits than cats in Panlong District.
C. Fishes are less popular than other pets in Wuhua District.
D. Xishan District has the fewest dog lovers of the three districts.

40. Where can you probably read the text?

- A. A travel guide. B. A math workbook.
C. A history textbook. D. A pet care magazine.

第二节 阅读还原（本题共 5 小题，每小题 1 分，共 5 分）

以下是一篇短文，请阅读全文，并从下列方框里的六个句子中选择五个还原到原文中，使原文的意思完整、连贯。

As pet owners, if you want to build a strong relationship with your pets, it is important to understand their body languages. Pets use body languages to express many feelings, from happiness to worry. 41

Pets may have different signs (迹象) when they are under stress or feel worried. These can include heavy breathing, hiding or the changes in sounds. 42 Other pets like rabbits may stay very quiet or refuse food.

43 For example, some animals may show they're happy by playing with toys or by doing normal things like eating or cleaning themselves.

Your pets' behaviour can also tell you if they feel sick or hurt. Changes may appear in body languages. If an animal walks slowly, avoids touch, or licks (舔) one spot a lot, it might be sick or feel uncomfortable. 44

Understanding your pets' body languages helps build trust and makes your pets feel safe. 45
Therefore, it's important to read your pets' body languages.

- A. A happy pet will often show relaxed body languages.
- B. It also helps make your friendship with your pets stronger.
- C. If you see these signs, visit a vet (兽医) to check your pet's health.
- D. A happy pet likes to follow its owner around the house all the time.
- E. By learning to read these signs, you can better meet your pets' needs.
- F. Cats may hide under furniture, while dogs might make crying sounds.
